Ringway gives a helping hand to local charity - Surrey Community Action

As a local employer Ringway prides itself in supporting the local community in which it works. In July, Euromark, the road marking arm of leading highway maintenance company, Ringway, completed some much needed car park lining for local charity, Surrey Community Action in Surrey.

Surrey Community Action provides resources for the voluntary and community sector across Surrey through access to advice, funding, training and advocacy. Surrey Community Action actively promotes volunteering.

Bob Ferrier, Head of Support Services for Surrey Community Action said: "Having the car park clearly laid out would not have been possible without the kind generosity of Ringway, we are extremely grateful. Our resource centre has supported over 75 meetings since 1st April 2009 and we hope many more will take place now that we can see to park!"

Ringway Divisional Manager (Surrey), Matt Kelley commented: "It is important that Ringway supports the local community in which we operate by utilising the skills we have available in our business. It is so rare to have the opportunity to help an organisation so that their resources are focussed on helping other charities within Surrey. We are happy that Euromark and Ringway could help this excellent service."
